Nutley values lead man to the Navy

By Yael Katzwer
Editor

Military service requires dedication, resilience, patriotism and strong foundations, all things that Jason Castellanos has in spades. The Nutley native was June's "Sailor in the Spotlight," an online feature put together by the U.S. Navy's Helicopter Mine Countermeasures Squadron 14.

Castellanos, who graduated from Nutley High School in 2015, has been in the U.S. Navy for four years and has attained the rank of AWS2, or Naval Aircrewman Helicopter 2.

"Serving my country means holding myself to a higher standard regardless of the task at hand," Castellanos told the Nutley Journal. "Everything I do is not only a representation of myself but a representation of the United States military, so I must always act accordingly and do my best to live up to the standards that the military has set for me."

Castellanos' experience has brought him a great deal of responsibility.

"As a naval aircrewman, I am third in command behind the pilot and copilot," he said. "I am responsible for everything that happens in the cabin, whether that be loading cargo for humanitarian aid missions or monitoring passengers and delivering them to their destination safely."

Specifically, he conducts airborne mine countermeasures, vertical onboard delivery and training missions on the MH-53E Sea Dragon, the U.S. Navy's primary aerial mine countermeasures aircraft. He is currently assigned to detachment 2A's Safety Department, where he completes routine checks on safety equipment and tracks the training of 92 personnel.

Among his many accomplishments, Castellanos has received awards for Sea Service, Korea Defense and Good Conduct.

"Since arriving in South Korea in January 2020 for his first deployment, AWS2 Castellanos has been a standout amongst his peers," the spotlight announcement read. "In five months he has flown over 150 hours en route to multiple qualifications becoming a vital part of DET 2A's team. AWS2 Castellanos' trajectory will prove to have a significant impact on the MH-53E Aircrew community."

According to Castellanos, joining the Navy was a calling.

"While attending Nutley High School, I always knew I wanted to be a part of something bigger than myself," he said. "My uncle, Angelo Rosa, had a huge influence on my life. He is prior special forces — explosive ordnance division — and let me spend some time with him in Coronado, Calif., and gave me a tour of the naval station. It was there that I decided I was going to enlist."

Castellanos' mother, Erin Castellanos, says she could not be more proud of her son and his life path.

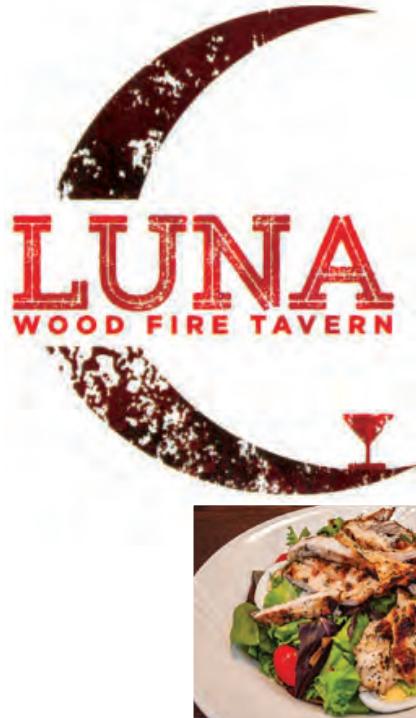

"Although there is a legacy of military in our family, Jay made the selfless decision to join the U.S. Navy on his own," she told the Nutley Journal. "It absolutely fills the entire family with pride to know Jay is serving our great country. As parents, we all want all of our children to reach their full potential. We want to see our boys grow into brave, responsible, hardworking, honest adults. The U.S. Navy encompasses all of these character traits and it instills this in our son daily."

For Jason Castellanos, these character traits he builds in the Navy are a continuation of the traits he began to build as a youth in Nutley.

"Growing up and always playing sports for Nutley made me appreciate being part of a team and working for a common goal," he said. "The Navy instills some of the same ethics as participating in sports just on a larger scale, of course, like hard work, discipline, resilience, facing adversities."

Class of 2020 graduates from Nutley HS

By Yael Katzwer
Editor

Although Nutley High School seniors couldn't cross the stage or turn their tassels together, there was still an impressive showing of community for the Class of 2020's commencement ceremony, which was broadcast on June 24. The prerecorded ceremony went live at 6 p.m., with nearly 500 viewers all watching together though apart from around Nutley and elsewhere to celebrate NHS' most recent batch of graduates.

"Pomp and Circumstance," the traditional graduation anthem, accompanied the graduation "processional," during which each student's photograph was shown on screen. This was followed by the national anthem and a performance by the NHS choir performing. Next came the speeches, prerecorded in the sun on the school's campus. Despite being held on an online platform, it felt like the high school's past graduations.

Some student speakers, such as senior class President Raj Paghdal, chose to focus on their accomplishments despite the pandemic that canceled many rites of passage that come with the end of high school.

"When thinking of our graduation, I never thought I'd be standing in front of a camera and only a camera," Paghdal said. "I always thought we'd be on the Oval, on the burning hot turf, under the blazing sun, in front of our friends and family, who would look upon us with pride and joy. Obviously that isn't the case, but regardless we still made it."

According to Paghdal, he had found his class's year of graduation symbolic, representing perfect vision and clarity. While struggling with the effect the pandemic had on his schooling, Paghdal has vowed to have 2020 hindsight in remembering all the good things he and his classmates did experience.

"Just as the weather began to grow warm and the fun part of senior year was on the queue, it came to a stop. At that time, we were told two weeks, then a month, and then we were told that school would be closed for the rest of the year. March 13 was by far the worst Friday the 13th, as it would be our last day in school," he said, encouraging his classmates to remember how resilient they are. "Years down the line, let's not remember high school by what we missed out on, but by what we had."

Salutatorian Natasha Marshall had a similar message for her classmates.

"Although graduation this year certainly isn't traditional, this is still a happy and exciting time," she said. "As a class, our life experience has been defined by change. We were born at the beginning of a new millennium; we've seen technology grow and watched as social media platforms evolved into the new standard of communication. And now, as graduating seniors, our lives are filled with transformation like never before."

And Marshall was not just talking about the COVID-19 pandemic when she spoke of change.

"The world is experiencing a major cultural revolution as people around the world are marching and demonstrating in the biggest civil rights movement in history. But we are not unequipped to understand what's taking place in the world around us. Throughout the past four years at Nutley High School, we've been required to take classes in various areas," Marshall said. "It's true that we might never have to solve a calculus problem or analyze a poem in our day-to-day lives, but now more than ever I realize that I didn't just learn a bunch of random facts in my classes."

Drawing examples from her two favorite subjects, Marshall explained how English literature classes taught her to think critically and history classes showed the importance of learning from the past. She encouraged her fellow graduates to think also about the many lessons they learned in school beyond the classroom, such as cooperation, hard work and much more.

"Our high school experiences are just the start of us finding our voices and our places in the world," she said.

Valedictorian Brian Grodzki also urged his peers to draw from all they have learned at Nutley High School as they go out into the world.

"I am so honored to be virtually standing before you all today — at least we don't have to wear sunscreen and bake on the frying pan that is the Oval," he began, injecting levity into the proceedings before getting down to business. "Grades don't equal life experiences. Rather, they're a by-product of goals, ambition, hard work, sacrifice, stress, lots of stress, too much stress. Therefore I want us to turn to our own experiences."

Grodzki drew parallels between his time at NHS and the classic children's book "The Giving Tree," by Shel Silverstein.

To me, Nutley High School will always See NEW ALUMNI, Page 8

Nutley commissioners address Floyd's death

The Nutley Board of Commissioners, along with Nutley Police Chief Thomas Strumolo, released the following statement on June 2 to express condolences to everyone aggrieved by the death of George Floyd in Minneapolis, Minn.:

"We, like so many others, have watched the disturbing video of George Floyd's arrest in Minneapolis, which led to his untimely death. The entire Nutley community is greatly saddened by this event, as well as the tragic events currently striking our nation.

"The Nutley Board of Commissioners condemn, denounce and reject the actions of the individuals responsible and join in the collective sense of national sorrow that the death of George Floyd has brought on our society as a whole.

"Police officers, like all public servants, are held to a high standard that has at its foundation empathy and the mutuality of respect. They have chosen a profession like no other and have sworn to uphold the law and protect and serve everyone — regardless of who they are, what they look like or what they believe — at great personal risk for their own lives. The residents of Nutley should rest assured that we will never tolerate the behavior that resulted in Mr. Floyd's death.

"The video is upsetting, disappointing and infuriating. It does not show the policing standards we know and expect in this community. Policing is an honorable profession filled with honorable public servants who treat all citizens with fairness and equality. However, it is clear we can and will grow as a community and not be afraid to call out injustice. Our police department is committed to protecting life and serving the community, even at the cost of their own life. We reaffirm our commitment to all Nutley residents that we will continue to be a safe and welcoming township for all people regardless of their race, national origin, ethnicity, gender, gender identity, sexual orientation or religion.

"Over the past several days, some peaceful demonstrations in cities across the country have turned violent. We respect everyone's First Amendment rights, however, we are asking our citizens to do their part in helping us protect our communities by refraining from violence. Our community stands united to condemn the shameful acts exhibited on the video and to urge people to remain engaged in healthy, safe and nonviolent dialogue and discourse. Racism and discrimination have no place in our society.

"We will continue to work to ensure a civil community where everyone is treated equally, the rule of law prevails, and fair and equal justice serves as a guiding principle. People across the country are rightfully demanding justice and accountability, and we believe as Americans that injustice is unacceptable and that justice will be served.

"Finally, in the words of Martin Luther King Jr., 'Injustice anywhere is a threat to justice everywhere.'"

Belleville Historical Society celebrates Flag Day

Belleville Historical Society member Roger Barnes, a U.S. Army veteran, sets the colors at Sgt. Decatur Dorsey's final resting place on Flag Day, June 14.

On Flag Day, June 14, the Belleville Historical Society set a flag at the grave site of Civil War Sgt. Decatur Dorsey, who served as the flag carrier for the 39th U.S. Colored Infantry Regiment.

Dorsey was awarded the Medal of Honor for heroism at the Battle of the Crater in Virginia on July 30, 1864. Dorsey was the third black American soldier to be awarded the medal, this country's highest military honor.

Dorsey was born into slavery in Maryland and gained his freedom after 20 years; he then enlisted in the Union Army. The regimental flag carrier was an especially dangerous position, a prime and easy target for the enemy. Despite intense enemy fire, Dorsey charged ahead of his regiment and was able to reach the top of the enemy position and plant the Union flag. His citation reads: "Planted his colors on the Confederate works in advance of his regiment, and when the regiment was driven back to the Union works he carried the colors there and bravely rallied the men."

In 2018 the Belleville Historical Society located Dorsey's grave site at Flower Hill Cemetery in North Bergen. Dorsey had settled in Hoboken after the war, where he died in 1891 at age 51. In 2019 the Belleville Historical Society restored Dorsey's white marble military marker as part of a program initiated by the late Belleville Councilman Kevin Kennedy to locate, clean and restore the grave sites of New Jersey's Medal of Honor recipients; seven grave sites have been restored as part of the initiative.

Blood drive honors Rotonda

Commissioner John V. Kelly and the Nutley Department of Public Affairs are partnering with Vitalant Blood Services of New Jersey to conduct a Nutley Community Blood Drive in honor of Nutley resident Anne Rotonda on Thursday, July 16, in the afternoon to early evening.

The drive will be held at the Nutley Parks and Rec Building, 44 Park Ave., Room 300, from 1:30 to 6 p.m. by appointment only.

No walk-ins will be accepted. Safety precautions will be put in place to ensure the health and well-being of all donors and technicians.

Do not donate if you are sick or may have been exposed to the COVID-19 virus. All donors must wear a mask or cloth face covering. As always, donors must be between the ages of 16 and 76, weigh more than 110 pounds, and be in general good health.

In 2013, Rotonda was diagnosed with acute myeloid leukemia. At that time, the Board of Commissioners held the first blood drive in her honor. In 2017 she was diagnosed again with the same disease and in September of 2017 received a bone marrow transplant. Rotonda, who continues her battle with this disease, had been director of the Nutley Special Young Adults organization for more than 38 years.

To schedule an appointment to donate blood at this drive, visit https://donor.cbsblood.org/donor/schedules/drive_schedule/52550 or call 877-258-4825.

be my giving tree,” he said, explaining that NHS gave him more and more resources as he grew, both academically and socially. “By this point we have taken so much wood from the tree that we can build our own ships. With all of our experiences, we will set sail far away to colleges, the military or straight into the workforce, if we please.

“Now, as we are ready to set sail on our own, we realize how much is ahead of us. We’re excited for the future, but we’re nervous at the same time. I feel now more than ever we are realizing how much we have taken for granted. We have taken so much from the giving tree that is NHS,” he continued. “Unfortunately, we also had many memories and experiences snatched right away from us. However, this time it is merely a splash of water in our ocean. Our ships will become reinforced from our experiences.”

Just as “The Giving Tree” ends with the boy returning to the tree stump years later, Grodzki exhorted his peers to return to NHS when they can and to remember all the school has done for them.

Drawing from a quote by Dante Alighieri, NHS Principal Denis Williams told the Class of 2020: “This was not how we wanted to part, but congratulations and the stars will shine for you again.”

“As you stand on the cusp of new journeys in a world fraught with contention, my last message to you will be to remind you of the mindsets that are needed to be successful people and citizens in a democracy,” he said. “Mindset one, humility. You need to be aware of what you know and what you don’t know, and you need to be aware of the limitations of your viewpoints. Two, courage. Be willing to stand up and express against the majority and express your views even if they are unpopular.

“Three, empathy, to have an awareness of the need to be actively entertaining different views from yours and to gain insights from them,” he continued. “Four, integrity. Hold to yourself the standards that you expect from others. And finally, perseverance, to be willing to work through difficulties, frustrations, to not give up at the first sign of problems. We need all of you to hopefully embed this in your souls and in your mindsets. We need you for our futures.”

Board of Education President Charles Kucinski also spoke about the graduates’ futures and he urged them to continue to remain strong in the face of seemingly insurmountable difficulties.

“Don’t allow the past four months to define your high school years. There are hundreds of wonderful moments you will relive about your Nutley education. You will now begin designing your future,” he said. “We know you have been inspired to dream and encourage you to follow an open pathway to learning.”

Also giving some advice, Kucinski told the graduating students to trust themselves, believe and know that they each matter, be kind, and be confident.

“If you can graduate during COVID-19 and a world pandemic, there isn’t anything you can’t do,” he said.

Like previous speakers, Superintendent of Schools Julie Glazer lamented that everyone could not celebrate together at this time, but feted the Class of 2020 and their many accomplishments despite the recent struggles.

“Today we honor your years of study, hard work and accomplishments. We also thank all of those who have supported you during your academic career in Nutley: the faculty, staff, parents, grandparents, siblings and your friends,” she said. “We talk a lot about what it means to be from Nutley, to be ‘Nutley stronger.’ In the past few months, you’ve truly shown us the beliefs and values that represent the maroon and gray.”

In the Class of 2020’s response to the novel coronavirus, Glazer said the students showed resilience, grace and grit.

“The Class of 2020 has been achieving great things since you first stepped into a classroom, and now you’ve demonstrated your strength to continue to accomplish in these unprecedented times,” she said. “Enjoy your success. Be proud. We’re proud of you and everything that you’ve achieved so far. We look forward to all of the extraordinary things you’re going to do in the future, too.”

NJSIAA provides summer workout guidelines for schools

A member of the 2019 girls tennis team at Nutley High School prepares to serve the ball.

New Jersey State Interscholastic Athletic Association marked the initial step toward a fall-season return to high school sports with the release of initial guidelines for summer workouts, formally known as the “summer recess period,” according to a June 19 release from the NJSIAA.

“The governor’s announcement today regarding youth and recreation sports is another positive step in our collective effort to return to play. It’s important to note, however, that while these particular guidelines are instructive, they don’t directly apply to high school athletics,” the NJSIAA said in a June 15 statement. “Any scholastic sports program is part of the overall curriculum and so must be appropriately in sync with all other facets of the school. High school athletics cannot function independently from schools – which, of course, are currently focused on the safe return of more 1.3 million students, including 283,000 high school student-athletes. In short, scholastic sports present far more pressing and complex considerations than do youth and recreation-level programs.

“NJSIAA strongly believes that with summer workouts starting in July, student athletes will have more than enough time to prepare for the fall season.”

If member schools wish, they may begin summer workouts on July 13; this phase will continue until at least July 26. Additional guidelines and specific timing for subsequent phases are pending, and details will be shared no less than two weeks before the next phase begins. Start dates for all fall sports remain unchanged, though NJSIAA continues to emphasize that all dates are subject to revision. Full guidelines for the summer recess period are accessible online at www.njsiaa.org/events-news-media/news/njsiaa-provides-return-play-guidelines-phase-1.

“These guidelines represent the first of a succession of steps toward meeting our return-to-play targets,” NJSIAA Chief Operating Officer Colleen Maguire said on June 19. “But, it’s important that we take a disciplined approach and stay mindful of health and safety concerns for all.”

Established by NJSIAA’s pair of COVID-19 task forces, the guidelines follow Gov. Phil Murphy’s Executive Order No. 149 and are in accordance with New Jersey Department of Education, New Jersey Department of Health, Centers for Disease Control and Prevention, and National Federation of State High School Associations guidelines. Coaches may continue virtual contact with players until the beginning of the summer recess period.

“Unlike youth and recreation sports – which are operating on an accelerated schedule – high school sports must remain in sync with our schools,” NJSIAA Assistant Director Tony Maselli said June 19. “Scholastic athletics are part of the school curriculum; they don’t operate independently. As the most densely populated state and one that was significantly impacted by COVID-19 during the spring, New Jersey is working to safely return to school more than 1.5 million teachers and students – including 283,000 scholastic athletes – without causing a significant spike. Our guidelines provide a staged approach to those schools that wish to move forward during July. And, at the same time, they give student athletes time to ease into more rigorous activities.”

IT'S A GRAND OLD FLAG — Flag Day is celebrated each year on June 14 to commemorate the adoption of the U.S. flag in 1777, which makes the flag older than the Constitution. In this old photo, recently shared by the Nutley Historical Society and Museum, Nutley's — then Franklin's — own Stephen Peter Vreeland, who served in the Civil War, poses in front of a 34-star flag made by his wife and sisters.

NJDEP awards $48,616.27 grant to Nutley Township

The New Jersey Department of Environmental Protection is awarding $19.4 million in annual Clean Communities grants to help municipalities and counties remove litter to beautify neighborhoods, improve water quality and enhance quality of life, Commissioner Catherine McCabe announced June 10.

In total, the DEP is awarding $17.3 million to eligible municipalities and $2.1 million to the state's 21 counties. The program is funded by a legislated user-fee on manufacturers, wholesalers and distributors that produce litter-generating products.

"Clean Communities grants help municipalities and counties with the important task of removing unsightly litter, often from roadways and around stormwater collection systems, to enhance quality of life," McCabe said.

"Beautifying our communities through these types of cleanups helps improve water quality and natural resources while also protecting wildlife and their habitats."

The nonprofit New Jersey Clean Communities Council oversees the reporting requirements for the program. Disbursements are based on housing units and miles of municipally owned roadways.

"Municipalities and counties are strongly encouraged to use these grants to pay for volunteer and paid cleanups, badly needed equipment purchases, enforcement activities and education," council Executive Director Sandy Huber said. "We are grateful for funding that helps keep New Jersey clean. We are proud to serve as an educational resource for communities, as we drive many of our campaigns to engage the younger generations to help mold positive, long-term behaviors toward discarding litter."

Essex County will receive $68,504.47. Grants to Essex County municipalities are $56,264.28 to Belleville, $76,332.36 to Bloomfield, $13,968.79 to Caldwell, $21,884.99 to Cedar Grove, $103,656.54 to East Orange, $5,750.01 to Essex Fells, $7,488.86 to Fairfield, $11,811.27 to Glen Ridge, $82,986.45 to Irvington, $55,487.39 to Livingston, $38,446.41 to Maplewood, $39,750.98 to Millburn, $67,855.82 to Montclair, $404,693.98 to Newark, $13,053.86 to North Caldwell, $48,616.27 to Nutley, $45,675.15 to Orange, $10,554.50 to Roseland, $27,397.56 to South Orange, $24,003.81 to Verona, $20,518.55 to West Caldwell and $73,627.62 to West Orange.

County cancels summer concert series, fireworks

The 2020 Essex County Summer Music Concert Series and Fireworks Spectaculars have been canceled because of the coronavirus, a June 1 press release from the county announced.

Essex County traditionally has hosted three Fireworks Spectaculars in Branch

Brook and Weequahic parks in Newark and Brookdale Park in Bloomfield/Montclair to celebrate Independence Day. In recent years, the summer concert series has included about 30 different events that have included a variety of music genres, cover bands and daylong festivals.
